

Close to Rock View and on the way north to Iwokrama, is the beautiful village of Surama set in a savannah within the rainforest and surrounded by mountains. It was here that Charles Waterton passed through in 1812 in search of the secrets of the useful Wourali poison known as Curare that led him to become famed as the Father to modern day medicine. Waterton was so stunned by this spot that he wrote in his memoirs "The finest park that England boasts falls far short of this delightful scene".

ABOUT GUYANA

Guyana is the only English speaking country on the continent of South America, with Venezuela, Suriname and Brazil as its neighbours, and the Amazon River basin to the south. It is a land full of unspoiled rivers and falls, rarely explored mountains, rainforests, and extensive savannahs, all teeming with their own extraordinary variety of wildlife.

ROCK VIEW LODGE

RUPUNUNI GUEST HOUSE

Nestled between the Amerindian villages of Annai and Rupertee where the Pakaraima foothills meet the tropical rainforest, Rock View Lodge offers comfortable lodging, outdoor activities, a breezy garden-like setting, authentic Amerindian hospitality and access to everything that central Guyana has to offer. We are conveniently located few meters from the Annai airstrip, served by flights from Georgetown.

The lodge is located directly off the main road connecting Georgetown to Lethem, making us a perfect transportation hub for all your Rupununi adventures. Rock View Lodge offers eight private guest rooms featuring netted beds, bathroom, electricity and drinking water. Hammocks are hung on the front verandah of each room, perfect for a relaxing afternoon siesta.

A palm thatched benab is available for relaxation, meetings and workshops. The Rock View swimming pool, surrounded by boulders and a succulent garden is ideal for relaxation and refreshing exercise. Rocking gently in the shade of the cashew tree you can relax in a hammock with a cold drink and a book after a day picnicking, boating, riding, birding or hiking.

Meal service begins with coffee and tea at dawn for bird watchers, followed by home-cooked breakfast, lunch, and dinner served under the old mango trees.

Given our proximity to the airstrip and road, you will often find yourself enjoying a meal with visitors from all over Guyana. The Edwards family and staff often join guests for meals in what has become a friendly tradition.

Rock View Lodge is the venue for the annual Rupununi Music & Arts Festival. The lodge also operates the region's first and only sustainable aquaculture project, offering visitors the chance to enjoy a meal of freshly caught fish. Visitors can be invited to work with our Amerindian cooks to become acquainted with local indigenous cuisine from our home grown produce.

Rock View Lodge has been welcoming visitors to the savannas and rainforests of Guyana's Rupununi since 1992. The lodge is an integral partner with the local Amerindian community to build economic opportunities, provide professional development, preserve traditions, and improve a sustainable tourism infrastructure in Guyana's pristine interior.
